LAUBANNE, Dec. 4.-The United States appears as potentially the defactor in the struggle for the control of the Dardanelles as a result of a situation which developed here to-day. America has not yet spoken its views upon this all important quesfor the world. that Russia had suffered five years from an open waterway, during which time her Black Sea ports were bombarded and insurrections assisted in consequence, and that Russia could not and would not permit in the future England's hand to be at her throat.

The Rumanlans and the Bulgarians, inspired by the Allies to feel out the Turks' position, pronounced themselves for an open waterway, demilitarizing the Black Sea, which Tchitcherin later prohounced to be the greatest of all historical inconsistencies.

Russians Win Advantage.

Diplomatically, the Russians and the Turks "backed the Allies off the map." Turks 'backed the Allies off the map,' completely disarranging their program for the strafts discussion. Lord Curzon and Teletherin conducted most of the discussion. The British Poreign Sectory pointedly asked the Russian Foreign Commissar if he presumed to speak not only for Georgia and the Fibraine but also for Turkey. Tchitcherin did not reply to this, but pointedly asked Lord Curzon if England was at the table as arbiter of the world's destinies. Russia, he said, demanded that she be recognized as one of the great Powers, in complete equality with Fingland, and did not recognize England as arbiter. The situation became very tenne.

The Turkish delegation to-night in a statement attacking Curson's attitude said: "Lord Curson was certainly provocative and aggressive. He was using an old English manoeuver and trying to befor the real issue. His statement that issue Pasha was not showing respect for the conference because he was not ready to outline Turkey's position in detail certainly was disrespectful to the head of our delegation."

The Turks do not consider the situation hopeless and believe that further negotiations are possible, but some of them went so far as to say that if a break came Turkey was ready to continue the war, suggesting that she could make the straits uncomfortable for the Allies, seize the Mosul oil fields, retake Mesopotamia and perhaps get effective help from the Moslems in India and Egypt through a general Islam uprising.
